Corona Virus Impact Statement

As we are sure you have heard the Corona virus has been spreading worldwide and may result in disruptions to supply chains in many industries. Currently we are not experiencing any material supply side impact. This combined with Jacknob's large stock of inventory should allow us to weather this storm and continue to provide our world class hardware.

We understand that this is a fluid situation, and we are watching it closely. We are in constant touch with our suppliers and are making contingency plans to ensure minimal impact to our supply chain.

We will continue to update this statement with our current supply side and stateside operational status.

Thank You for your support.
